Christmas With A "Vengeance"

—by—

SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

"For all they that take the sword hall perish with the sword." There s a meaning in these words more rofound than that the sword-taker ay himself be physically killed by he one he attacks. The sword-taker ies inside. Callouses develop on is soul, and his heart becomes a tone.

War breeds hate, and hate breeds ar. An endless futile chain.

There is less of Christmas in the orld today than there has been in enturies. Mercy, compassion, tenerness—where are they? A front ne soldier may share his Christas package with the waif of the an he slew. But what of us back ome in this Christian land?

In Berlin, where formerly 125 ed every day in a population of 000,000, four thousand are dying day, half of them children less an one year old. The babies, at ast, did not start the war. If this eps up, more than a million will rish in one European city before other Christmas day.

BID FOR DICTATORSHIP

The men and women of the United States, for their own welfare and future guidance, need to recognize the Truman Army-Navy recommendation for what it is.

It is the boldest bid for dictatorship which has been made to a free people since the rise of Hitler.

Under the excuse of reorganizing and consolidating the Army and Navy under a single command, the military branch of government would be made supreme. Every other phase of government and economy and private life would be made subordinate to the army's "need"—which in the long run means their whims.

The objective of military dictatorship is only thinly disguised. Mainly it is hidden under a snowstorm of words—7000 of them. The only concealment is the specious statement that the new branch of government would be headed by a "civilian."

But many a civilian wears a brass hat on his thinking. President Roosevelt remained a "navy" man to his death; President Truman thinks of himself as "army." Significantly, the Army has advocated the Truman scheme, the Navy opposed it.

As an argument, the Truman message has a major weakness. He summons America to gird for future war; to dedicate our lives and our future to Spartan-like and trigger-happy preparation to defend ourselves from attack.

But attack by whom? Truman does not say, does not even hint.

Omission to set forth the name of the ominous enemy of peace whom Truman fears will make many citizens regard the entire proposal as a bit of shadow-boxing.

Nevertheless, it is obvious that Truman had some nation in mind, and almost equally obvious which nation it must be. There is only one country big enough to be a serious threat to the United States, and only one partner in the United Nations Organization which has been ruthless and non-cooperative.

Many Americans may miss the point; Stalin will not. From the Russian point of view, the Truman message is almost tatamount to a declaration of war.

Most definitely, it is also a declaration that the United Nations program is a failure in the mind of President Truman.

Only a complete surrender of all hope that cooperation, friendship and justice can keep international peace could justify the recommendation of military measures so costly, so desperate, and so dangerous to individual happiness, prosperity and liberty.

In thinking and in spiritual values, the plan calls for a return to the emotional life of cavemen.

There is another great fallacy in the President's logic; he asks for unification of Army and Navy as though it were a new thing, and asks for it under the conditions of dictatorship, whereas we have had it under guarantees of free government ever since the Constitution was adopted.

The words should be known by heart by every American who undertakes his responsibility of deciding whether to support or oppose President Truman's drastic plan.

"The President shall be Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States."

In a sense, President Truman's comments are the most sweeping indictment yet uttered of his predecessor for the breakdown which made possible our disasters at Pearl Harbor.

CRIME GRAPH IN PA. IS SWINGING UPWARD

Return To Gangsterism of Early '30s Foreseen; Increase Since V-J Day

THROWBACK TO CRIME

(This is the second of a series of exclusive articles by International News Service on post-war crime in Pennsylvania, its causes, and efforts being made to stem it.)

By Tom R. Brislin
INS Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 20 (INS) The crime graph in Pennsylvania since the end of World War II today appeared swinging towards a return to the gangsterism of the early 1930s.

Throughout the state, an International News Service survey reveals, there has been a throwback to the hijackings, shakedowns, and daring holdups of one of America's most lurid periods of crime.

In Luzerne County, where police estimated as much as a 30 per cent increase in crime in 1945, burglary and breaking and entering cases have harassed authorities.

State police have nearly 50 unsolved cases in these categories on their roster at present. Automobile thefts, too, have been numerous.

Luckily, there have been no fatalities in any of the Luzerne County crimes, and, in most instances, property loss has been small. One store robbery netted $500 in cash. In addition, there have been numerous cases of vandalism. Schools have been damaged by intruders and five churches have been entered.

Keep Sidewalks Clear

Residents of Bristol borough are urged to keep side-walks clear of snow, making pedestrian travel easier.

It is suggested that a path be cleared and the snow placed on the outer half of the sidewalk.

Where snow is thrown into the gutters motor traffic is hampered, cars become stuck, and drainage is impeded.

When the sun rose this morning its rays glistened on a coating of snow approximately 6½ inches deep in this part of the country. But to many motorists the sun didn't appear to be shining, so deeply were they immersed in gloom and the thoughts of digging out their cars where they had become stuck in ditches, driveways or in the snow piled in gutters.

Highways as a whole were opened in Bucks County however, with 60 snow plows and their crews kept

ONE MAN'S OPINION - - -

By Walter Kiernan
(Distributed by International News Service)

This is the first Christmas since 1940 that we've had nothing to worry about except the same old things.

Just a year ago this time, the Battle of the Bulge was contributing to Santa's white hair, Tokyo Rose was in full bloom and we were praying for early deliverance from our enemies.

Our prayers having been answered, we have returned to our pre-war free style worrying over jobs, money, falling hair and what to get the wife for Christmas.

But there is one big difference between the pre-war and the post-war Christmas. In the past, people asked Santa Claus for all the things they wanted. This year, many people seem to be putting it up to General Motors, Ford and Big Steel.

Yet, even as we wait for the patter of the reindeer on the roof, Santa Claus already has come for a lot of people. Northern Iran has received a new government from Moscow, Yamashita has received a stay of execution from the Supreme Court, and Congress has promised to go home for a week.

We have no late advices on whether or not Jimmie Byrnes will present the atom to the Russians in time for the holidays. But the Big Three's problem on atomic energy boils down to this . . . if the atom eventually will run railroads, Moscow doesn't want to be just a whistle stop.

My own conclusion is that two honest men always can strike a bargain if one of them isn't crooked.

Bucks Workman Dies; Hit By Falling Tree

DANBORO, Dec. 20 — Four days after he had been hit by a falling tree limb, E. Paul Moyer, 43, of Danboro, died yesterday afternoon at Roxboro Memorial Hospital.

Moyer entered the hospital on Saturday with a severe head injury, and remained unconscious and semi-conscious up to the time of his death. Because of his condition, physicians were unable to make an X-ray study, but it is believed that his skull was fractured.

The Danboro man was a logger employed by Willis Heacocks, of Plumsteadville. On Saturday, he and his brother, Ammon Moyer, were felling trees on a property at Gettysburg and Cross streets, in the Chestnut Hill section.

According to Ammon, the tree they were felling fouled another as it went down. The two men, experienced fellers, were clear of the trunk, but as the two trees brushed each other a heavy limb was broken off. It flew through the air and struck Moyer on the head.

The victim of the accident was born in Hilltown township, a son of Gideon and the late Clara Heckler Moyer, of Pipersville R. D. He was a member of the Deep Run Mennonite Church.

Surviving are the widow, Anna Stover Moyer, and four children: Richard, Pawelsville, Md; Harry, Silverdale, and Clara and Marvin, at home.

Brothers and sisters are: Byron Moyer, Center Valley; Stanley Moyer, Silverdale; Winfield Moyer, Silverdale; Mrs. Fred Baumanster, Danboro; Dwight Moyer, Blooming Glen; Ralph Moyer, Plumsteadville; Mrs. Samuel Miller, Dublin; Gideon Moyer, Jr., Plumsteadville, and Ammon Moyer, Danboro.

The funeral will be held on Saturday.

THE WORST YET

Civilians who have been planning trips during the holiday season would be wise to give them up unless they are ready to take the punishment in store for them. According to Deputy Director Homer C. King of the Office of Defense Transportation December is destined to be the "worst travel month" of all.

Mr. King bases his prediction on the fact that troop movements will be heavy. More than 1,000,000 service men, he says, will land at East and West coast ports during December, and to take care of them 72 per cent of all Pullmans have been reserved. Still more will be taken off regular schedules if they are needed. Civilians are getting what's left—and it isn't much.

As a matter of fact, Mr. King's explanation isn't the half of it. He might have added that there will also be millions of Americans who are going to insist on traveling this Christmas because there will be family reunions all over the land. They are not to be criticized for that, considering what these gatherings must mean not only to them but to the men and women who are back home again.

Probably that explains why the ODT has no plans for putting pressure on civilians to stay where they are, though Mr. King merely says that the war is over and that, if people want to travel under the conditions they will have to face, they can. Anyhow, no one will object to the government's attitude as long as service men are provided for.

But it does seem that those who have no special reason for traveling during the holidays might defer their plans for a little longer. That would be a sensible and considerate thing to do.

SATURDAY NIGHT BATH

There is no comfort in a bulletin from the Indiana State Medical Association for little boys who dislike to wash behind their ears, but there is a definite intimation that the ancient custom known as the Saturday night bath may be sufficient for adults.

This bulletin deals with care of the skin and can not be accused of exaggeration when it says that "the skin is an important part of the body," requiring special care, especially during the winter. Cosmetics, the bulletin says, are satisfactory for camouflage, but when it comes to cleanliness nothing takes the place of soap and water.

Here the association strikes a new note. "Too frequent bathing dries the skin and robs it of essential oils," it declares. "For young adults one bath a day is recommended and is sufficient. For elderly persons, a tub bath only once a week or every two weeks, with sponge baths in between, is the prescription, for older persons are inclined to have dry skins and too much bathing actually causes discomfort and is unnecessary."

Thus the Hoosier state's leading medical authority has spoken. As for the individual and his bathing routine, it might have added, "Let your conscience be your guide."

World. But as the Catholic Bishops said last month, "The world is one only in so far as men live together as brothers under God."

Christ—from whom Christ-mas comes—was the child of Abraham. But He gave us a new commandment. He did not believe that peace could come from the Old Testament's cruel doctrine of an eye for an eye and the slaughter of women and children.

Was He right or was He wrong?

It is unreasonable to ask us to vote billions to UNNRA and at the same time keep us in the dark by denying us the right to have newspaper correspondents watch its operation in order that bread itself may not become a terrible political weapon, granted here, denied there, behind the black curtain of power politics.

But we who still believe in Christmas can translate that belief through non-governmental agencies. Nearly every church has some committee at work to heal this world from hate. The Quakers may be cited for especial mention. Your pastor, your priest will be able to advise you of something you can do. Then there is the Salvation Army, the Red Cross.

More than this, as a citizen you can make your influence felt in the White House, at the Department of State, and in Congress to rewrite the Potsdam Declaration in order that millions may live.

The de-militarization of Germany and Japan must be accomplished. Security demands that. But only vengeance demands the total de-industrialization of the heart of Europe.

Byron Price, who did an outstanding job as our war time censor of news, is back from Europe with this message: "The entire basic structure of military government in Germany, including the Potsdam Declaration, should be re-examined in the light of new conditions." Otherwise, he says, "Starvation, with attendant epidemics" will be laid at our door.

We, too, stand at the bar of history. We are operating under the most difficult circumstances that ever attended a generous-minded people. Reports come that communists whisper throughout Germany "the Russians did not bomb your cities." Even if true, we cannot let millions lose faith in our western world.

Windowless rooms, unheated cellar holes, mass suicide. With one hand we sign a document agreeing that coal mines may be stripped of their machinery; with the other, we ship American coal to freezing people who could and should dig their own.

I do not believe politicians can make peace. Peace is written in human hearts, or not at all. There never has been enough Christmas.

Those disasters were possible, Truman argues, because there was lack of unified control. But there SHOULD have been unified control. Such control was not merely a right but a duty of President Roosevelt under the Constitution.

This brings us to the heart of the radical change involved in the Truman plan. Under the Constitution, the Army and Navy are subordinant branches of government, controlled in two ways by the civilian population: first, through Congress; second, through the elected President, who is Commander-in-Chief and therefore coordinator.

Truman would change this entirely. Two subordinate bodies in the executive branch of government would be merged and be given a seat at the right hand of the President—pushing even the Department of State into the background. Still more significant, the real direction would be entrusted to appointed officials, named by the President.

The plan would therefore completely break the chain of command by which the American people were promised direct control over their armed forces, so long as the Constitution remained in effect. Presidents are only responsive to the public in the sense that they can be re-elected or defeated; their appointees, as everyone knows are not responsive to the public at all.

The inability of Congress to control and direct bureaucratic appointees of the President is notorious.

The conclusion is obvious; the President's assertion that there would be civilian control over the military under his plan is a polite fiction. Neither Congress nor the people themselves would longer have any say in the matter. The brass hats would be supreme. America, as happened in Germany and Japan, would be in the hands of the war-lords.

Elocutionist Will Appear Before The Travel Club

Readings by an elocutionist, an exchange of gifts and social intercourse, will feature the Christmas party of the Bristol Travel Club tomorrow evening. It will be held in the Travel Club home at eight o'clock, with Mrs. Harry T. Neher and Mrs. David M. Sheerer, president and vice-president of the club, respectively, serving as hostesses.

The readings will be by Miss Mary Myers, of Philadelphia. Miss Myers was the entertainer at a meeting of the Travel Club 12 years ago.

There will be an exchange of gifts among members of the club and their guests attending the party. Each member attending is requested to take a gift for herself and guest. Packages containing gifts for men are to be marked accordingly. It is suggested that the women take gifts for women and the men provide gifts for men.

HANSEN GOES ON SCORING SPREE FOR BENSALEM

Rolls In A Total of 19 Points As Bensalem Defeats Bordentown

FINAL SCORE IS 29 TO 26

Points Scored in Final Minutes of Play Give Owls The Victory

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Dec. 20—"Jack" Hansen went on a scoring orgy last night on the local court as the Bensalem High basketeers scored a close triumph over the Bordentown Manual Training School. Final score was 29-26.

Hansen amassed a total of nineteen points via nine field goals and a foul. It was his points in the final minutes of the game which gave the Owls their margin of victory.

The colored school boys were led by Lane who scored eight counters.

In the preliminary game, the Bensalem High Junior Varsity won over the Bordentown Junior Varsity, 29-12.

Friday night, Bensalem meets Morrisville on the Bensalem court. This is the first Lower Bucks County League game of the season. Morrisville recently scored an upset in school boy ranks by winning over the strong Trenton High team.

TWO GAMES BOOKED FOR YOUTH LEAGUE

Two games will be played in the Bristol Youth League tonight starting at 7.30 o'clock on the Mutual Aid floor. In the first game, the Ramblers will meet the Celtics while the second game pits Franklin against the Catholic Boys Club.

Both Franklin and the Ramblers must win tonight in order to keep in a deadlock with the Harriman A. C. for first place. The Harriman team has won four straight while the Rams and Franks have three each.

The Ramblers-Celtics tussle should prove interesting as it was these two clubs which battled it out for the championship last season with the Celtics winning out.

ROHM & HAAS OUT TO DEFEAT KAISER FIVE

With its eyes towards second place, the Rohm and Haas team will meet the fading Kaiser Cargo five tonight on the Maple Beach club-house floor, in a Mercer County Industrial League game. In the preliminary game at 7.30 o'clock, the Rohm and Haas girls will play the Kaiser Cargo lassies.

The Rohm and Haas team is in third place at the present time and with two more wins can climb into second position. Tony Castor's boys have won their last two games by close margins while the Kaisermen have lost three in a row.

Castor will most likely start Cahall, Roe, Fandetta, Lozenbold and DeWitt in tonight's contest. Cahall is one of the leading scorers of the circuit and will have a chance to boost his scoring record tonight.

Kaiser may have several new players in its line-up tonight. Manager Ted Russo has been searching since his team hit the skids and may start several new faces tonight.

Yule Party Follows The Hulmeville P. T. A. Meeting

HULMEVILLE, Dec. 20—A Yuletide party followed the December meeting of Hulmeville-Middletown Parent-Teacher Association in the school house last evening. Ned Moyer presided during business; with the program being in charge of Mrs. Helen Oberdorf, who with Mrs. Hubert Crawford had been named as the entertainment committee.

Group songs were led by Miss D. Shelley, with Miss Margaret Perry as pianist. Minutes were read by Mrs. Earl Foster.

With the local school closed yesterday until January 2nd, decision was made to present the P. T. A. gifts to the scholars upon their return to school. Samuel J. Illick had beben named to secure the gifts.

A questionnaire is to be prepared and sent to parents of pupils. In this manner mothers are to be asked if a cafeteria is conducted this winter at the school if their children will patronize it; if the mothers will be willing to aid in preparation and serving of food, and how often their services will be available.

The principal, the Rev. Richard R. Gay, informed that the school nurse visits the schools two days a week to check on the children's health; and if children are ill she visits them at their homes. It was stated that the nurse will examine any pupil should the parent desire such for any particular reason. The principal also stated that through courtesy of Mr. Moyer the boys of the school had been shown reels of color, sound film dealing with electric arc welding.

The attendance award was won by Miss Margaret Perry's room, second and third grades.

Game prizes were won by Mrs. Herbert Rongley, Miss Perry and Mrs. Vincent Mather. A vocal solo was given by Mrs. Richard R. Gay, the title being "The Virgin's Lullaby;" and readings by Miss Elma E. Haefner. There was an exchange of gifts among members. Refreshments of chocolate nut sundaes cup-cakes and coffee were served by Mrs. George Bilger and Mrs. Hunsberger. Favors were Santa boots filled with nuts.

6½ Inches of Snow Cover Bucks County

busy since early yesterday morning.

At the office of the superintendent of highways at Doylestown this morning it was stated that crews and plows remained out all last night after working throughout yesterday. Today the crews with their plows are engaged in the "widening-out" process, making travel easier. Some of the men were on the plows or cinder trucks from five o'clock yesterday morning until five this morning, it is stated.

"Every road in Bucks County under our jurisdiction is open to two-way traffic," stated a spokesman for the highway office. There are 943 miles of highways in Bucks County in charge of that office. High praise was given men on the plows, which task is considered a hazardous one and one which calls for a man to be on the alert every minute; also to the cinder crews who kept at their back-breaking task for hours at a time.

No accidents were reported to state police in Bucks County during the past 24 hours. There were however a number of cases of cars skidding, and some minor accidents.

It is stated that approximately 60 per cent of the schools in the county are closed. Some officials, realizing that travel was becoming increasingly difficult as the snow continued to fall yesterday called off sessions until after the holidays. The fact that there is much absenteeism due to illness also had bearing on the decision, it is stated.

Bristol borough schools closed yesterday until after the holiday season. After tuition pupils attending high school were sent home at 11 o'clock yesterday morning due to bad travel conditions at that time, decision was made to close all public schools in the borough. The elementary pupils from Bristol were dismissed at noon; and high school pupils at two o'clock. The decision, it is explained by superintendent of schools Warren P. Snyder, was due to piling snow in the rural areas, the fact that several teachers are ill, and "doubling up" of classes or securing of substitute teachers was necessary; and also to the fact that a number of pupils are ill.

St. Mark's and St. Ann's parochial schools remain in session, although at the latter, it is stated there are a number of students who are ill.

The schools in Langhorne, Middletown township and Hulmeville closed yesterday until January 2nd.

Bensalem Township schools remain in session.

Doylestown borough schools plan to close this afternoon due mainly to numerous cases of illness. The scheduled Christmas entertainment of the schools there will be held tonight however. It is stated there are 125 students of Doylestown high school who are indisposed. Quakertown schools closed yesterday. Many other schools in the county also closed, due to the fact travel conditions were becoming difficult and there was fear they might become worse. Doylestown township and New Britain township are also closed.

With the speaker who was scheduled to address Bristol Fathers' Association members last evening unable to arrive here a substitute speaker was listed.

The "Little Beaver Canteen" was closed last night due to a broken pipe at the headquarters on Beaver street.

Delivery of mails in Bucks County as well as throughout northern United States is hampered due to weather conditions.

The temperature range here between eight yesterday morning and eight this morning was from 16 to 22 degrees above zero, the lowest being at eight this morning. The precipitation in that 24 hour period was .24 inches (melted snow).

Buses and trains through this area were in operation, with schedules only slightly delayed.

RESCUE SQUAD CASES

In Erie, the current crime wave has involved mostly burglaries, car thefts and a heavy jump in sex offenses. Police reported "remarkably few stick-ups" and only several fire-arm cases.

Thefts from homes, police said, run into the "housands of dollars." No gangs are involved in the crime wave in the Erie sector, police claimed.

A 14-year-old boy was arrested and charged with robbing 48 homes, six gas stations and 21 automobiles. The youngster told police he had been taught to steal by his 25-year-old ex-convict uncle.

Erie has had three murders thus far in 1945, with two of the cases resulting in convictions. One slayer is awaiting execution, with an appeal pending before the Pennsylvania Supreme Court. The other murderer, a Negro, killer of two persons, got a long prison term.

Fayette County, of which Uniontown is county seat, has also been in the midst of a wave of murders. Four cases are still to be tried. The fifth, the sex slaying of Anna Elizabeth Dreyer, Fayette City "Sunshine girl", resulted in conviction of Frederick E. Hauser, an ex-sailor.

The murder cases still pending in the county grew out of arguments, according to District Attorney H. Vance Cottom, who becomes a Common Pleas Judge in January.

One of the murdered men was a soldier. Also pending, said Cottom, are about "half a dozen manslaughter cases involving veterans, and numerous theft cases involving servicemen and ex-servicemen."

In Northampton County, out of 67 cases listed on the December calendar, 12 were sexual offenses. President Judge Herbert F. Laub declared most of the sexual cases involved children under 16. A slight increase in thefts was reported, but Judge Laub said it has "not reached the violent rate as yet."

York City's post-war crime has principally involved larceny and petty larceny. August, the month of the war's end, oddly enough resulted in the greatest number of cases, totaling 43. A drop to 36 resulted in September, followed by a jump to 42 in October. November saw 28 larceenies. Thirty-eight automobiles were stolen in York during September, October and November.

In Harrisburg, capital of the Commonwealth, Chief of Police Oscar L. Blough declared that the crime rise has been principally in minor offenses.

Since V-J Day, he said, there had been only one murder—by a man who killed his wife and then committed suicide.

Stories of the "rolling of GIs" discharged from Indiantown Gap Military Reservation have been "exaggerated," Blough asserted, though he admitted that "some of it" had taken place in the capital city.

Philadelphia, largest city of the state, has witnessed a bloody trail of hijacking and robbery since the end of the war.

In just one night recently, these crimes were committed in the city: Two servicemen beaten and robbed: A civilian slugged and his wallet stolen, and an elevated station held up.

Day after day, there come stories of more hold-ups, many involving ex-servicemen. Most recent was the case of a former sailor shot as he attempted to break into the West Park Branch of the Philadelphia Post-Office.

By MARION CLYDE McCARROLL

There's no need to be extravagant with either money or time in concocting an effective setting for your Christmas dinner table. The traditional cherry red and green of the Christmas season is quickly achieved with such easily obtained "props" as pine cones, evergreen twigs, rhododendron leaves, poinsettias, Santa Claus figures and the like.

Some of the things, such as the pine cones, evergreen twigs and rhododendron leaves you may be able to get right out of your own backyard, while the Santa Clauses and similar articles can be had at the local dime store.

Nor does it take a professionally trained hand and eye to create clever and charming effects. Keep in mind the fact that your best lace, linen or lace tablecloth, your prettiest china and glassware, your gleaming silver, all have a big part to play in the picture, so don't plan a centerpiece that will completely overwhelm them by its elaborateness. Keep the centerpiece simple, so that it enhances, instead of detracts from the other table appointments.

Shown here are different table settings which stress the note of simplicity.

RHODODENDRON LEAVES tipped with silver paint are arranged here in wire holders on a tray, interspersed with silver balls on wires of varying length. Lovely, with tall red tapers, on your Irish linen cloth.

FIX CROP GOALS DURING MEETING OF A A AGENCY

NEW TURKEY MARKET

Reports Indicate Some Improvement in Farm Labor Picture

By Suzanne Flick
(I. N. S. Penna. Farm Editor)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 20—Pennsylvania crop goals for 1946 were fixed during a meeting of the State Agriculture Adjustment Agency at Altoona December 12 and 13.

Secretary John A. Smith said 150 county chairmen and commodity representatives fixed the goals according to federal recommendations. Potential production of seven items will be studied by sub-committees before definite commitments were made, he added.

"If Pennsylvania cannot meet a certain goal considered adequate for the State by the Federal Agency, the scale will be shifted so that the deficiency can be made up by other states," he explained. "Likewise, if the Keystone State can produce more than was anticipated along certain lines, demands placed on other states will be toned down."

Smith predicted that the milk and egg goal would be below 1945 figures while requests for feed grains would be greater.

"Demands in Europe for flour have stimulated requests for wheat," he explained. "In addition, we want to build up our stockpiles of feed grains against possible droughts.

"If such a disaster were experienced, we would be unprepared to supply stricken areas with necessary livestock feed, because our surplus is very small," Smith stated.

The State Agriculture Department saw a new turkey market opening in increasing demands for small birds.

E. J. Lawless, Bureau of Markets Director, predicted farmers could find a new outlet for the state's record turkey crop through sales of split fowl for frying.

"The consumption of turkey could be increased greatly if dealers cut up the birds to fit the needs and pocketbooks of small families," he declared.

"While holiday dinners require a whole or half bird, cut-up turkeys could be more of a Sunday dinner feature," he explained.

Lawless pointed out that the "split turkey plan" was first practiced during the depression and had been revived this year in crowded metropolitan areas.

Some improvement in the farm labor picture has been reported by J. Earl McCord, State Supervisor of the Emergency Farm Labor Program conducted from the Pennsylvania State College.

Incomplete reports indicated more than 65,000 workers were placed during 10 months of 1945 compared with 63,183 for the same period last year, McCord said. In addition, more prisoners of war were used to harvest this season's crops than ever before, he added.

The number of youngsters volunteering for year-round work on farms increased three-fold, McCord pointed out, with the result that the number of requests for hired help dropped from 10,594 to 8,769, he said.

BEAVER—For the first time in the history of the county bench, the judges of Beaver County will cloak themselves in the time-honored black robes of their judicial office when court opens in January.

NEW WILMINGTON—We've had Potato Queens, Gridiron Queens and May Queens but it took Westminster College to promote a new one. The students named Marjorie Irvin "Posture Queen."

NEW CASTLE — Two women have formed the "Bring Back the Daddies" Club pledged to pressure authorities to return all fathers to their families shortly after January 1.

BROWNSVILLE — When police asked for a record repeater they did not seek a lawbreaker with a long list of convictions or "repeats." They merely wanted an automatic record player.

PITTSBURGH—A three-ton bell and a clock similar to the face of Big Ben will be the Steel City's war memorial and has been slated for dedication August 14 — the day the war ended unofficially.

Writes of Old Circuses

I am an old man and like all aged men I like to recall memories of the past. Today I have been thinking of the old time one-ring circus and many pleasant memories have been revived.

Roger Bros. operated the Bristol Mills on Mill St. Between their office which was located at the corner of Pond and Mill streets and Mill Race which was near the railroad crossing, a huge lumber shed had been built. Several weeks before a circus came to town, the advance agent would come into town and engage Roger's Bros. to build a large bill board across the front of this lumber shed. Upon this bill board the circus posters would be pasted. In this way the circus was thoroughly advertised.

The circuses in those early days traveled in wagons on the highways and were called "mud circuses". On the morning when the circus was due to arrive, the tent wagons came into town about four o'clock in the morning. The rest of the circus did not arrive until nine or ten o'clock. All circuses carried a menagerie. The children of the town would go down Otter street to meet the circus when it arrived. At a point where is now located the entrance to the Bristol Cemetery, a turn in the Bristol Turnpike took place and the circus could be seen approaching quite a distance before it reached the town. Here the young people would gather in large numbers, and great excitement prevailed when the circus was seen approaching. It would stop at Locust and Otter streets and form the parade. In the meantime the tents had been erected and the parade would march through the town and dismiss when the tents were reached.

The first circus I can remember was called "McGinleys" and it erected its tents on a vacant lot back of Dorrance street, where Penn Street has now been opened. I was a very small boy but I can remember my father carrying me home in his arms. The circuses of those early days had but one ring and the clown was the important feature of the show. He was very versatile and could sing, act on the horizontal bar or trapeze, ride bare-back and do many more things. Many famous performers began their careers in the one-ring mud circuses.

With the passage of the years, the increase in the population and the consequent increase in the attendance, made the tents of the one-ring circuses inadequate to accommodate the public. It is said that Barnum called his directors together to consider the matter. It was contended that if the tent was lengthened out at the ends, those who were sitting there would be too far away to enjoy the show. Presently one of the directors suggested that an oblong tent be used with two rings and similtaneous performance going on in each ring. Thus the multiple ring circus came into existence. It is also said that Barnum was the first to conceive the idea of entraining a circus.

While all circuses had a side-show or two, there were many side-shows in those early days, that traveled separately. Where Clarence Winter's home now stands at the corner of Mill and Wood Sts., was a vacant lot and it was here where the side-shows would erect their tents and remain for a week or two. Sword swallowing was an important feature in the performance of all side-shows. A side show called the "Little Mexican" gave a performance on the lot near the Bristol Carpet Mills. During the performance a terrible storm came up and those who were present never forgot the excitement that ensued.

During the days closely following the close of the Civil War, when the Federal Government was opening up the land west of the Mississippi River to Homesteaders, the country became overrun with a lot of Quack Indian doctors who claimed to have obtained the formulas for making medicines from herbs from the Indians. Many of them visited Bristol and the performances which they gave on this vacant lot at the corner of Mill and Wood streets were attended by many citizens.

It has been a pleasure to revive these memories of long ago and if the public enjoys reading the articles and the Courier is willing to print them, I shall be glad to recall other reminiscenses of bygone days.

Nut Yields

When buying nuts in their shells, homemakers sometimes are uncertain as to how much "meat" they will yield. This yardstick will help eliminate guess work:

One pound of unshelled almonds yields about 1 cup of shelled kernels; 1 pound of filberts about 1-1/3 cups; 1 pound of peanuts about 2 cups; 1 pound of pecans almost 1½ cups; 1 pound of English walnuts a little more than 1½ cups halved kernels; and 1 pound of black walnuts about ½ cup broken kernels.

STEELTON — (INS) — Lt. Peter Mesaric bagged a 310-pound bear in Elk county and felt he may have made something of a record until the State Game Commission reported that 20 years ago a 600-pound bruin was taken.

SCRANTON — (INS) — An old-fashioned bucket brigade saved the home of Victor Smith when flames from a burning garage endangered the dwelling. Neighbors dipped water from a well and passed it along until a fire company negotiated a steep hill to get to the fire.

NEW CASTLE — (INS) — Panhandlers hoping to prey on open-handed Christmas shoppers bursting with Yuletide charity need not include New Castle on their itinerary. "They will not be tolerated at this time of year," declared Mayor John H. Haven.

STAR AGAIN SHINES ON BETHLEHEM, PA.

7 MILES OF LIGHTS

By Connie Knauber

BETHLEHEM, Dec. 20—(INS)—The lights of peace are on again in Bethlehem, "The Christmas City of the U. S. A."

For the first time since 1941, a huge electric star shines down upon Bethlehem from South Mountain, symbolic of the beauty and dignity of the season, and of the new era of peace on earth.

Christmas has been a solemn but joyous occasion in Bethlehem since the town was founded by Count Zinzendorf on Christmas Eve 204 years ago. The Count and his Moravian followers, who fled the tyranny of Europe in quest of religious peace ,agreed to name their village after the town where the Christ child was born.

This year the brilliant lighting display was turned on December 1, and will continue until the day after New Year's. Seven miles of electric lights outline the streets, while the giant electric star, mounted on a 100-foot high structure, is visible ten miles away.

Hill-to-hill bridge, over the Lehigh river, is the stand this year for a 48-foot Christmas tree, decked with 1200 bulbs.

The community "Putz" will be opened on Christmas Eve in the Sunday School building of the Central Moravian Church, and householders are busy building their own.

The putz is a replica of the Nativity scene, with miniature figures of the Holy family, the manger and the three Wisemen. Putz pieces are cherished as heirlooms and handed down from one generation to another. Friends and strangers alike are invited to see the carefully assembled models.

Candle-making is another part of Bethlehem's Christmas ritual. At Simon Rau & Co., the nation's oldest drug store, thousands of candles are made in molds used by the Moravians more than 200 years ago. Requests for the bees-wax tapers come from all over the country.

Special Christmas Eve services will be held in Bethlehem churches and at dawn on Christmas, a mellow trombone choir at the Central Moravian Church will herald the anniversary of Christ's birth.

SUGARLESS SWEETS ARE EASY TO MAKE FOR THE HOLIDAYS

By Mary Jacoby Fleetham,
Home Economics Representative

Sweets still are a part of Christmas and the holiday season though we are reminded to go easy on them. Rationing of sugar has curtailed the consumption of both commercially made and homemade candies but many sweets can be made at home without sugar.

When candy is available for children, it is advisable to give it to them only after they have finished either dinner or supper. If eaten before a meal or between meals, candy usually spoils the appetite for the next meal. Dentists say that to a great extent tooth decay is caused by too many sweets. Taken moderately sweets are not harmful.

Puffed Rice or Popcorn Balls

Make a sirup using 2 cups corn sirup or 1* cups corn sirup and ½ cup molasses. In the same proportions, corn sirup and maple sirup may be combined. Boil the sirup and 1 tablespoon of butter or fortified margarine until it spins a thread. Pour slowly over puffed rice or popcorn, stirring so a small portion of the sirup sticks to each kernel. Dip hands in cold water and form the mixtures into balls.

Peanut and Raisin Clusters

½ pound sweet chocolate
1 cup roasted peanuts
¼ teaspoon salt
2½ cups raisins

Break chocolate in pieces and place in top of a double boiler. Allow water in lower part to steam but not boil. When chocolate is melted, add salt, raisins, and nuts broken in halves. Mix thoroughly and drop by spoonfuls on wax paper to harden.

Moisture for Popping

Popcorn pops by steam power, and poppers get the best results, when the kernels contain between 14 and 15 per cent of moisture. The moisture requirement is the same for the old-type open-pollinated corn and the new high-yielding hybrid kind that has 25 to 30 per cent more expansion.

Good results in popping corn depend on how the corn is kept just as much as on its condition when bought. Much of the popcorn now sold at retail in small quantities is hermetically sealed in cans at the proper moisture content for best popping. When one of these cans is opened, the corn not to be used at once can be kept at the right moisture content by sealing in a glass fruit jar, using a rubber ring.

Most householders have no quick and easy way to find the moisture content of loose popcorn, but popping a sample will give some indication. If the corn pops well, leaving few grains unpopped, the rest of the batch may be kept in this condition indefinitely by closing tight in rubber-sealed jars.

If the corn does not pop well and seems too dry, it may be improved by sealing in a fruit jar with a few drops of water added.

KNOW YOUR STATE

Beginning with the remarkable career of Benjamin Franklin something in the air or climate or racial stock of Pennsylvania seems to have led to the encouragement of great versatility in the genius of its people.

Passing over the amazing variety of Poor Richard's contribution to literature and government and to the advancement of science the names of John Fitch and Robert Fulton stand high for their pioneer work in the development of steam navigation. But both John Fitch and Robert Fulton were silversmiths like that famous Massachusetts' patriot, Paul Revere.

Oliver Evans, the first man to construct a self-propelled amphibian vehicle operated by its own power, the first to introduce steam hoists and steam power into a flour mill, and also the first man to burn anthracite coal in an open grate was a Philadelphia blacksmith.

John Brashear, a Pittsburgh iron puddler, became one of the world's most distinguished manufacturers of telescopes. His great refractors are used today in observatories all over the world.

It is not only in the mechanical arts that the versatility of Pennsylvania's men of talent and genius has been exhibited. Franklin's Autobiography was only one of the many classics produced by Pennsylvanians who through their life followed very different careers from that of the pen.

Francis Hopkinson, signer of the Declaration of Independence, attorney at law, and one of America's elder statesmen wrote one of the first American ballads and composed our first secular song.

Dr. S. Wier Mitchell, who during his lifetime was the outstanding American neurologist, was equally distinguished as a translator of Old English poetry and as the author of some of the most popular historical novels of the last generation.

John B. McMaster, a distinguished civil engineer, who designed and built the caissons of the Brooklyn Bridge, later turned from his chosen profession to become the leading American historian. His History of the United States is still the standard work on the development of American government and institutions.

The landscapes of John Kane, a peasantly educated and self-taught house painter of Pittsburgh, are today exhibited in many of the leading galleries of our country. Through a lifetime of hard manual work he painted, with great originality and power, scenes in the industrial life of western Pennsylvania and in competition with the leading artists of the world gained first place at the Carnegie International Exhibition.

Personal FINANCE COMPANY opens ANOTHER OFFICE IN PHILADELPHIA
ANXIOUS TO MAKE LOANS
HURRY CASH NEEDED AT OUR NEW CONVENIENT LOCATION
3534 COTTMAN STREET
At Frankford Avenue
Personal has just opened another office to give better service to folks here and nearby towns. We want to make loans and our aim is to give the best loan service and most liberal credit in this community.
If you need cash!—And you have a steady job then you can get $25 to $300 from Personal. We don't require a lot of security because we prefer to make loans on just your own signature.
LOANS $400 to $1000. If you need more money, you can get $400 to $1000 through the Personal Consumer Discount Company. Ask us about them.
Whether you need only a small amount ($50 cents just $3.04 when repaid in three equal monthly instalments) or a larger loan, don't hesitate to come in or phone us. We'll be glad to serve you.

...a better beer..NATURALLY
That describes Gretz...a naturally better-tasting beer, because it's still made the old-fashioned way...slowly...naturally. Be beer-wise. Next time you get beer...get Gretz.
